

DOR	DOD
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • User Story is clear • User Story is testable • User Story is feasible • User Story defined • User Story Acceptance Criteria defined • User Story dependencies identified • User Story sized by Development Team • Scrum Team accepts User Experience artefacts • Performance criteria identified, where appropriate • Scalability criteria identified, where appropriate 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Code produced (all 'to do' items in code completed) • Code commented, checked in and run against current version in source control • Peer reviewed (or produced with pair programming) and meeting development standards • Builds without errors • Unit tests written and passing • Deployed to system test environment and passed system tests

<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Security criteria identified, where appropriate• Person who will accept the User Story is identified• Team has a good idea what it will mean to Demo the User Story	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Passed UAT (User Acceptance Testing) and signed off as meeting requirements• Any build / deployment / configuration changes are implemented / documented / communicated• Relevant documentation / diagrams produced and / or updated• Remaining hours for task set to zero and task closed
---	---